

Me Bag Assignment
Spring 2012
Reiter

For me to truly be able to teach you effectively, I need to know a little bit about you... your interests, hobbies, past experiences, what makes you you. In order for me (and your classmates) to learn about you, you will create a “me bag.”

I will provide you with a brown paper lunch sack, which you should decorate to reflect your personality. At home, you will fill it with items that represent you. You may use photos, trip souvenirs, rocks, books, or other objects, but there are three rules: your objects must fit in your “me bag”, be school-appropriate, and you cannot bring your cell phone or iPod. Your bag should contain at least 5 objects.

You will write an essay about your objects and how they represent you, making sure that you write a paragraph about each object. Don't simply describe your object; explain how it represents you! Please type your essay if possible (please refer to your syllabus for formatting requirements.)

In class, you will present your “me bag” to me and your classmates, showing each object and telling us how it represents you, thus introducing yourself to the group.

Your “me bag” and essay are due on Monday, February 6, 2012.
Be prepared to present on this day!
